

1 DELEGATE HARDWICKE: That is correct. Once
2 he reaches this maximum amount, that is correct.

3 DELEGATE ADKINS: Suppose he doesn't reach the 4 maximum amount. Let's assume he serves five years, and 5 he elects to retire at fifty-five, let's say. He serves 6 from fifty to fifty-five. Beginning at age sixty, does 7 he get the same per annum rate that the man would who 8 served until he was seventy?

9 THE CHAIRMAN: I think it depends on the 10 conditions under which he terminated his service. If 11 he resigned, I am not sure.

12 DELEGATE ADKINS: This doesn't make that 13 qualification. There is no qualification here for 14 resignation. It says the only thing, active service as 15 terminated, and he has reached his sixtieth birthday. I 16 think this is the provision.

17 THE CHAIRMAN: I would like to pursue that same 18 question under this. If the man resigns before he is 19 sixty, is he entitled to his pension at the age sixty?

20 DELEGATE HARDWICKE: The answer to that is yes, 21 Delegate James. With regard to Delegate Adkins, yes, is